SHORT COURSE

This course will help participants understand the global debates about alternatives to the current crisis-ridden global economic order.

This course is presented by Mark Swilling, a Distinguished Professor of Sustainable Development in the School of Public Leadership, University of Stellenbosch and Academic Director of the Master's Programme in Sustainable Development that is delivered at the Institute.

Through in-depth discussions participants will:

- understand the different approaches and the assumptions on which they are based;
- understand the implications for social change of the different approaches, in particular the role that different actors will in the social change process; and
- be able to critically engage with the different approaches in order to more adequately work out what they think would be appropriate given particular contexts and value systems.

When attending this short course at the Sustainability Institute, the entire space is part of the learning experience. Come and learn in an environment that is engaging and mindful, where discussions can be enjoyed with a diversity of people, creativity be renewed through immersion, where we learn with nature in mind and ensure just futures are sustained through generative thinking.
