

SHORT COURSE

THIS COURSE IS ABOUT LEADING TRANSITIONS TO SOCIOECOLOGICALLY RESPONSIBLE ACTION, AND AIMS TO ENABLE COURSE PARTICIPANTS TO DEVELOP LEADERSHIP CAPABILITIES THAT ARE PREMISED ON THE CAPACITY TO RECOGNISE, DESCRIBE, ANALYSE AND APPLY THE DIFFERENT ETHICAL MODELS AND VALUE SYSTEMS THAT UNDERPIN SOCIOECOLOGICALLY RESPONSIBLE ACTION.

Leading Transitions and Environmental Ethics

DATE & TIME

1 to 6 April 2019

It will run Monday to Friday from 08:15 to 17:15 and Saturday from 09:00 to 13:00

VENUE

The Sustainability Institute, Lynedoch Road, Off Baden Powell/R310, Stellenbosch

PRICE

6-day Course: R10 800 per person

The above price includes lunch and tea breaks (Mon - Fri).

APPLY

Applications for short courses close strictly 10 working days before a course commences, accompanied by full payment of the course fees.

For more information please contact Nicole Adams at nicolette.adams@usb-ed.com or +27 21 918 4207.

The short courses are delivered by the School of Public Leadership in partnership with the Sustainability Institute, and administered by USB-ED.

SUSTAINABILITY
INSTITUTE

Join us!

@sustainabilityinstitute

SHORT COURSE

Come and develop your understanding of different ethical models and value systems that underpin sociological actions.

Central themes will include:

- the underlying ethical value systems of different approaches to leadership and facilitation;
- philosophical models for conceptualising environmental problems and the related approaches to environmental and ecological ethics - and why understanding these enables pragmatic action in conflicts in and around sustainable solutions;
- relationship between environmental, ecological and social ethics, e.g. flourishing through socio-ecological efficiency, freedom, equality, equity and justice;
- models of, and approaches to, leadership and facilitation within society and human organisations;
- the ethics of sustainability and process-oriented leadership;
- complexity, ethics, leadership and facilitation;
- creativity, spirituality and personal unfolding;

When attending this short course at the Sustainability Institute, the entire space is part of the learning experience. Come and learn in an environment that is engaging and mindful, where discussions can be enjoyed with a diversity of people, creativity be renewed through immersion, where we learn with nature in mind and ensure just futures are sustained through generative thinking.

CERTIFICATE

Short course attendees who satisfy the minimum performance requirements for the course i.e. attendance of the full 6-day course, contribution to the class, group projects and completion of the individual assignment, will be awarded a Certificate of Attendance from USB-ED.

THIS COURSE IS IDEAL FOR

Postgraduate students and practitioners with a specific interest in ethical leadership, sustainability and the environment. This course will help you to develop your understanding of different ethical models and value systems that underpin sociological actions.